

MEMORANDUM

TO: City of Port St. Lucie
FROM: GrayRobinson
DATE: April 16, 2023
SUBJECT: 2023 Legislative Session – Week 6 Summary (April 10-14)

As the legislative session draws to a close in just three weeks, only 25 out of the 1791 bills introduced this year have passed both chambers, with 15 having already been signed by the Governor. Notable among the recently signed bills are SB 300 (Pregnancy and Parenting Support) and SB 360 (Causes of Action Based on Improvements to Real Property).

As House and Senate committee activities begin to wind down, the focus for the remaining weeks will shift to floor sessions. Budget conference committees are expected to convene next week to reconcile the differences between the two proposed budgets, SB 2500 and HB 5001, which currently have a $697.2 million discrepancy. This marks the closest they have been since the FY 2019-2020 session, when they were $423 million apart. This is a significant improvement from last year when the two chambers were $3.3 billion apart, and even more than $2 billion apart the year before that. Both bills must be passed by both chambers before the session ends on May 5th.

In addition, the House unveiled its annual tax package this past week, making a significant reduction in the business rent tax, and also passed the death penalty revisions from the floor. The Senate passed an updated condo safety bill (the second such bill since the Surfside Tragedy) and also approved a measure that would allow for drone delivery services.

These and other highlights are featured below in our summary of the week that was in Tallahassee.

Port St. Lucie Activities

It is expected that the House and Senate will begin budget conference this week, as early as Monday. Our team spent most of last week working with our sponsors to make one final push before the window closes on appropriations.

Summary of Week Six (April 10-14)

You Get a Tax Cut, and You Get a Tax Cut...

On Wednesday, the House Ways & Means Committee gave unanimous approval to the House's annual tax package, which spans 73 pages and is valued at $1.4 billion. The proposal includes a sales tax exemption on baby and toddler necessities such as diapers and incontinence products, a measure previously suggested by Governor Ron DeSantis. However, the plan does not include the governor's proposal for a one-year sales tax exemption on basic household items under $25. The package features several sales tax holidays, including the "Freedom Summer" holiday, spanning from Memorial Day to September 4, which is projected to save residents approximately $224 million on items such as sporting equipment, concert tickets, and camping supplies. The proposal also involves a 1% reduction in the business rent tax and an extension of the back-to-school sales tax holiday.

In addition, buyers of gas stoves would be exempted from sales tax, resulting in an estimated savings of $6.8 million. On the other hand, the Senate Finance and Tax Committee, led by Chairman Sen. Blaise Ingoglia, R-Spring Hill, has begun discussing its tax package plans. Ingoglia intends to compensate local governments affected by recent property tax reductions, but no bill has been filed yet. Ingoglia also expressed support for a permanent sales tax exemption on firearm safety items and a reduction in the business rent tax. The House and Senate will work together to create a final tax package during budget conferencing over the next few weeks.

Surfside Regulations Evolve

The Senate on Wednesday unanimously passed a measure seeking to fine tune and clarify condo building safety regulations, continuing an effort that began last year in response to the fatal partial collapse of a high rise condo on the beach in Surfside. Lawmakers last year created a statewide inspection program for condominium towers once they hit a certain age and put in place new financial requirements for condo associations to make sure they'd be able to meet maintenance and repair needs.

But legislators acknowledged that the effort led to some confusion and presented financial concerns for condo owners and have spent part of the last year meeting with condo owners to try to find ways to make the response work better. The bill passed Wednesday is the result of that work. The new measure (SB 154) also allows condos to get their first major inspection for structural issues after 30 years instead of 25 in some cases, a response to a shortage of inspectors. It also removes a requirement that condo owners covered by Citizens Property Insurance obtain flood insurance. The bill still needs House approval.

Six Week Abortion Bill Approved and Signed by Governor

The full House passed new abortion restrictions Thursday amid public outbursts in the chamber's gallery and Gov. Ron DeSantis quickly signed the measure into law. House Republicans rejected numerous amendments filed by Democrats on Thursday and in a chamber quieted after the ejection of protesters from the public viewing gallery passed (SB 300), which supporters are calling the "Heartbeat Protection Act." The measure bans doctors from performing most abortions beyond six weeks of pregnancy. It makes exceptions in cases of rape, incest, human trafficking, fatal fetal abnormalities or if the mother is at risk of severe injury or death. To qualify for the exception, the measure requires pregnant women to prove they're a victim of rape, incest or human trafficking by producing a police report or other evidence, in which case it would allow abortions up to 15 weeks.

The governor's office said in a statement late Thursday that DeSantis had signed the legislation. The six-week ban will take effect if the state's current 15-week ban is upheld in an ongoing legal challenge before the state Supreme Court. The bill also includes a $25 million annual appropriation to expand services provided by state-supported, faith-based pregnancy centers, including clothing, car seats, diapers and counseling, but the requirement that the centers be run by faith-based organizations has drawn criticism. Opponents argued the government should not interfere in decisions a patient makes with a doctor, while supporters said it protects the right to life. Nearly 60 amendments filed by Democrats all failed or were subsequently withdrawn. The amendments ranged from removing the current requirement of two doctors to prove a fatal fetal abnormality to funding rape crisis centers in the state. The unamended legislation, sponsored by Sen. Erin Grall and Rep. Jenna Persons-Mulicka, passed on a 70-40 vote with some Republicans joining Democrats in opposition.

Death Penalty Changes Going to Governor

The Legislature on Thursday sent Gov. Ron DeSantis legislation (SB 450) that would allow judges to accept death penalty recommendations when 8 out of 12 jurors recommend it, a standard that would give Florida the lowest death penalty threshold in the country. The measure was spurred by the life sentence a jury recommended for Nikolas Cruz, the shooter in the 2018 Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School massacre in Parkland. In that case, nine jurors were in favor of a death penalty recommendation, but three jurors held out for life in prison. The change in how death penalties are handed down was for the governor. It passed on an 80-30 vote in the House late Thursday after having passed in the Senate in March. Current law requires a unanimous jury recommendation for a judge to hand down a death penalty. After the governor signs the measure into law, Florida will join Alabama as the only states not requiring unanimity for such sentences. Alabama's threshold is a vote of at least 10-2 in favor.

Drone Bill Flying to House

A bill (SB 1068) that would prevent local governments from refusing to issue permits or approvals for drone delivery services passed unanimously Wednesday in the Senate, sending the measure to the House, which also has an identical bill (HB 1071) ready for floor consideration. In addition to preventing local drone delivery bans, the measure also defines "drone ports" and sets out regulations for them, but excludes them from some fire safety requirements.
